

Jonathan Smith, 21: Former cancer patient who volunteered for a genetic transplant experiment and is now cured

- best chance for survival is a stem cell transplant--> saved my life
- you can't judge about it when you're not in my position--> it's a horror to live with
- God gave us this technology
- too expensive for a life-saving mission
- screen embryos to avoid diseases
- great chance for mankind
- > Stem cell transplant especially embryos should be used for curing people but not arbitrary
